

Building STEAM Bridges is: EMPOWERING WORKFORCE READINESS

Connecting education and workforce in a 21st century economy to ensure our kids' future success as healthy children, successful students, and productive members of the workforce through a heart-centered approach.

Building STEAM (Science, Technology, Engineering, Art, and Math) Bridges' programs are ready-to-go, stigma-busting tools that create an inclusive and holistic approach to address the disconnect between education and jobs, while tackling the mental health crisis.

LISTENING FROM THE HEART

Mental Health Program

Mental health = economic health, and the #1 tool for breaking through the STIGMA around mental health is to start the conversation.

Listening from the Heart brings mental health conversations to the front burner. We empower shared storytelling to help others feel not so alone and to create connection.

With Listening from the Heart, You Will:

- Implement a listening model to promote connection at home, school, and work
- Facilitate sharing stories
- Empower individuals and communities to jump-start valuable conversations

Return on Investment:

$1 invested in addressing mental health = $4 in improved health and productivity.
